MentorCity is an on-line mentoring matching program that connects you to meaningful mentoring relationships. The premise is that throughout your life and career, there are times when you can benefit from the advice, guidance and support of a mentor. There are also times when you can share your expertise and experiences to guide mentees in the right direction.

MentorCity creates a mentoring community that enables you to engage in a series of give-and-take relationships.

For Administrators

MentorCity establishes online mentoring programs for companies, schools and associations for their member engagement, succession planning, leadership development, and diversity and inclusion strategies.

MentorCity's online mentoring programs connect your members to meaningful relationships through our self-directed and comprehensive programs which save organizations time and money by minimizing their matching responsibilities and allowing program administrator(s) to focus their efforts on creating a mentoring culture and ensuring that program objectives are achieved.
